

MEDIA ALERT: Trager Contemporary Now Open in Permanent Space, Hosting Grand Opening Celebration on May 12th

Charleston, S.C.– April 23, 2018—Trager Contemporary, a Charleston-based fine art gallery, has moved to its permanent location at 577 King Street. The gallery is now open; the hours are Tuesday and Wednesday, 10-6; Thursday-Saturday, 10-9; Sunday 11:30-5:30; closed Monday.

To commemorate the move, Trager Contemporary will host a Grand Opening Celebration on Saturday, May 12th. The afternoon will feature talks and demonstrations by artists Cory McBee, Bri Catarino, and Jane Braddock and gallerist Kelly Trager. From 6-10pm, One Kool Blow will entertain while the crowd enjoys food and drink. This event is free and open to the public. For talk and demo schedule and updates, visit www.tragercontemporary.com/exhibitions.php

Trager Contemporary Grand Opening Celebration
Saturday, May 12, 2018
Talks and demos starting at 2pm; music 6-10pm
577 King Street

Please contact jt@tragercontemporary.com for more information or to RSVP. Pictures and additional information both pre- and post-event are also available.

About Trager Contemporary

Kelly and Josiah Trager moved to Charleston to begin Trager Contemporary in the fall of 2017. The gallery initially opened in a temporary space at 290 King Street to build its program of abstract contemporary art, and begin hosting events, including benefits supporting MUSC's Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Science and the ARK, Alzheimer's Family Support Services. After years of practicing law in New York City, the two have returned to their love of the arts. Kelly, a professional dancer and professor in the Design Management and Arts and Cultural Management departments at Pratt Institute, is responsible for building the diverse visual program that brings a vibrant abstract profile to the Lowcountry. A former actor, writer and producer, Josiah is heading up the gallery's operations and event management, creating a hip and welcoming space for contemporary art and events. Trager Contemporary represents Jane Braddock, Sandra Brett, Bri Catarino, Kelly Chelena, Brandon Donahue, Radu Dumitrescu, Richard Feaster, Tony Gill, Rebecca Gottesman, Philippe Halaburda, Charles Heppner, Christy Kinard, Cory McBee, Yevgenia Nayberg, Jane Schmidt, and Stuart Tessler.

For more information, please go to www.tragercontemporary.com. You can also follow them online: @tragercontemporary (Facebook, Instagram) and @tragerart (Twitter).

Contact Info:
Josiah Trager
Trager Contemporary
jt@tragercontemporary.com
843-882-5464